HISTORICAL SKETCH.

The Town of Newark was settled in the month of May, 1666, by emigrants from Connecticut. The first English settlement this side the Hudson was commenced at Elizabethtown in 1664. In August of the following year Governor Carteret arrived, and sent agents into New England to publish the "concessions" or terms of the Proprietors, and to invite settlers to the new colony. These terms were liberal; and early in the succeeding year (1666) agents were despatched from Guilford, Brandford, and Milford, in Connecticut, to view the country, and to learn more particularly the terms of purchase, as well as the state of the Indians in the vicinity. They returned with a favorable report; especially of the district "beyond the marshes, lying to the north of Elizabethtown," and were forthwith sent back with power to bargain for a township, to select a proper site for a town, and to make arrangements for an immediate settlement. To the good judgement of these individuals, who were Capt. Robert Treat, John Curtis, Jaspar Crane, and John Treat, are we indebted for the plan of our Town—our wide main streets, (the only ones then laid out,) and the beauty and extent of our public squares.

These preliminaries being arranged, thirty families from the above towns, and New Haven, embarked u der the guidance of the exploring agents, and after a passage as long and tedious as a voyage at this time across the Atlantic, arrived in the Passaic river early in the month of May. At this point, however, their progress was impeded. The Hackensack tribe of Indians, who claimed the soil granted to the agents of the emigrants, by the Governor, met them here, and opposed their landing, until full compensation should be made to them.

The manner in which this difficulty was disposed of, is set forth at large in an affidavit by Capt. Rob't Treat, dated March 13th, 1687, which we find among the documents accompanying the long "Bill in the Chancery of New Jersey," filed in April, 1746, by James Alexander, at the suit of John Earl of Stair, and others claimants under Carteret and Berkely, against certain settlers in Elizabethtown, for the recovery of the lands in that vicinity. This bill* recites at great length, the history of the English settlements in East Jersey.—The affidavit—which may be found on page 118 of the bill—contains the following interesting narrative. After setting forth that he was then, at the date of the affidavit, "about 64 years of age," and was "one of the company that first settled at Newark," Capt Treat proceeds—

"hat from my discourse and treatise with the Governor, I expected that he would have cleared the plantation from all claims and incumbrances, and given quiet possession, which he had promised to do; but no sooner were we on the place, and landed some of our goods, when I and some others were warned off the ground by the Hackensack Indians, who seemed angry that we had landed any of our goods, although we told them we had the Governor's orders; but they replied the land was theirs, and that it was unpurchased: thereupon we put our goods on board the vessels again, and acquainted the Governor with the matter, and he could not say it was bought of the Indians. I and most of the company were minded to depart, but the Governor, with other gentlemen, were loth to let us go, and advised and encouraged us to go to the Indians, and directed us to one John Capteen, a Dutchman, that was a good interpreter, to go with us: and I with some others and said Capteen went to Hackensack to treat with the Sagamores and other Indian proprietors of the land lying on the west side of Passaic river, about purchasing said lands; and one Perro (an Indian) laid claim to said Passaic lands which is now called Newark; and the result of our treaty was that we obtained of a body of said Indians to give us a meeting at Passaic, and soon after they came, all the proprietors, viz. Perro and his Kindred, with the Sagamores that were able to travel; Oraton, being very old, but approved of Perro's acting. And at that meeting with the Indian proprietors, we did agree and bargain with the said Indians for a Tract of their said land on the west side of Passaic river, to a place called the Cove, by the said Governor's order and allowance, and upon information thereof he seemed glad of it; and I with some others solicited the Governor, to pay for the purchase, to the Indians: which he refused and would not disburse any thing, unless I would reimburse him again; and a bill of sale was made, wherein the purchase of said land will appear; and I can and do testify that the said Indians were duly paid for it according to the Bill where in we became debtors to the Indians, and not to the Governor, as I judge: and Perro affirmed that he had not sold his land to any before this time."

* Commonly called "the long bill in Chancery." It was printed in folio form, in the city of New York, in 1747, by Jas Parker, and with its appendix, comprising a great variety of valuable documents concerning the first settlement of East Jersey, makes a volume of 150 pages.

This tract thus purchased of the Indians is more particularly described in a certificate from Samuel Edsal, who appears to have been one of the negociators, dated March 5th, 1687, which we find on page 117 of the same "Bill in Chancery." In this certificate the writer sets forth the purchase to be "a parcel of land lying and being on the West side of the Kill Van Coll, beginning at the mouth of a certain Creek named Waweayack, (Bound Creek) upon the bay side; and from thence running up the said Creek to the head of a Cove, and from thence Westward to the foot of the (Newark) Mountain, called by the Indians Watchung; thence running along the said foot of the Mountain, until it meets by an East line with a small river coming from the hills into Passaic river named Jantucuck, (3d river) from thence running down Passaic river, and Arthur Cull Bay, till it meets with the mouth of Waweayack, as abovesaid."

These limits formed the original Township of Newark, comprehending the present Township of that name and the Townships of Springfield, Livingston, Orange, Bloomfield, and Caldwell. The price of this purchase was 130*l.* New England currency, 12 Indian blankets, and 12 Indian guns.

It must be satisfactory to every townsman thus to know that every foot of land lying within our bounds was honestly and openly purchased of its original proprietors. However unjustly the aborigines may have been dealt with elsewhere, no act of our ancestors can be pointed to with the slightest reproach by the most jealous advocate of Indian rights.

The settlers first located themselves according to the Towns whence they came; but the sense of mutual danger soon induced a change in this respect. On the 21st of May, 1666, delegates from the several Towns resolved to form one Township, to provide rules for its government, and "to be of one heart and hand, in endeavoring to carry on their spiritual concernments, as well as their civil and town affairs, according to God and godly government." And for the more speedy accomplishment of their desires, "a committee of eleven were appointed to order and settle the concernments of the people of the place." This committee consisted of Capt. Robert Treatt, Lt. Samuel Swain, Samuel Kitchell, Michael Tompkins, Morris Say, Richard Beckly, Richard Harrison, Thomas Blatchly, Ed. Rigs, Stephen Freeman, and Thomas Johnson. The articles of government which they formed, possessed a full portion of the strict, religious spirit of the people. "No person could become a freeman or burgess of their town, or vote in its elections, but such as was a member of some one of the Congregational Churches:—nor be chosen to the magistracy, nor to any other military or civil office." "But all others admitted to be planters, were allowed to inherit and to enjoy all other privileges, save those above excepted." Disregarding the rights of the English proprietaries of New Jersey, and apparently with a resolution of disclaiming all fealty towards them, and of depending on their Indian grants, they also resolved "to be ruled by such officers as the town should annually choose from among themselves, and to be governed by the same laws as they had, in the places from whence they came."

In November of this year, "many of the inhabitants of Brandford" appear to have joined their associates in the enterprise. The following document, which we copy from the town records, appears to have been signed by them on this occasion, and to have been subsequently endorsed—in June, 1667—by the other male settlers. It will be seen by this document that in June, 1667, the whole population of the town consisted of sixty-five efficient men, "besides women and children."

October 30th, 1665.

At a Meeting Touching the Intended design of Many of the Inhabitants of Branford, the following was subscribed—

It will be perceived by these names, comprising the whole number, that a great majority of the original settlers of the town are still represented by a numerous posterity; as may be seen by consulting the Directory.

At the first distribution of land, each man took by lot six acres as a homestead; and as the families from each of the several original towns, had established themselves at short distances from those of other towns, the allotments were made to them in their respective quarters of the new settlement. Seven individuals, selected for the purpose, assessed on each settler his portion of the general purchase money. The lands were eventually divided into three ranges; each range into lots, and parcelled by lottery; first setting apart certain portions, called tradesmen's lots; one of which was to be given to the first of every trade, who should settle permanently in the place; reserving also, the present Upper Green of the town (now Washington Square) for a market place, and the Lower Green (now called the Park) for a military parade; and that part of the town in and adjacent to Market street, where the tanneries now are, then a swamp, for a public watering place for cattle. This last portion having been sold by the town, is altogether in possession of individual owners.

In 1667, the Rev. Abraham Pierson, the first minister, commenced his official duties here. He is said to have been "episcopally ordained" at Newark, in South Britain, and to have named this town after that of his ordination: by which name it was sometimes called abroad, but was known at others by that of Milford. In the next year, the first "meeting house," 26 feet wide, 34 long, and 13 between the joists, was erected; the town voting 30*l.* and directing that every individual should perform such labor as a committee of five might require, towards its completion. It was a small frame building, and stood near the centre of the town, fronting on Broad street, on the lot now known as the old town burying ground, opposite to the present building of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Pierson emigrated to the new world in 1655, and with a few followers settled in or near Guilford, Connecticut. He was one of those who were dissatisfied with the corrupt and arbitrary character of Church and State in England, and annexed himself to the party then called moderate Presbyterians. He was an old man when the colony settled Newark, and appears to have been eminent for his learning, wisdom, and piety. His salary was fixed at 30*l.*

Arrangements for the "meeting house" having been made, the town meeting next appointed Henry Lyon to keep a Tavern for the entertainment of travellers and strangers, and instructed him "to prepare for it as soon as he can." At the same meeting, (in the year 1668) Robert Treatt and Sergeant Richard Harrison were appointed to erect a "Grist Mill on the brook at the North end of the Town:" setting apart the second and sixth days of the week as grinding days. John Rockwell, of Elizabethtown, was at the same time voted a member of the community upon condition "of his moving here forthwith, and maintaining his present or other sufficient Boat, for the use of the Town."

Robert Treatt, and Jasper Crane, were chosen the first magistrates, in 1668; and representatives to the first assembly of New Jersey, convened at Elizabethtown, 26th May, of the same year; by which the first state tax, 12*l.* sterling, of which the proportion of Newark was 40*s., was laid. Mr. Treatt was also chosen first recorder or town clerk; and after a residence here of many years, returned to Connecticut, where he became governor, and died. The town also established a court of judicature, holding annually one session, on the last Wednesday of February, and another on the second Wednesday of September; having cognizance of all causes within its limits. On the 24th May, 1669, the first selectmen, five in number, were chosen. The number was subsequently increased to seven, who continued to administer affairs until 1736, when the present township officers were created by law. And in this year Indian hostility appears to have displayed itself in petty robberies and depredations, the increase of which, in 1675, induced the townsmen to fortify their church as a place of refuge, in case of general attack, and to take proper measures of watch and ward.

About this period the Rev. Mr. Pierson had become so infirm, that the town made out a call to his son, Abraham Pierson, Jun., to become his colleague. He had been educated at Cambridge, and was distinguished for his talents and accomplishments, but had neither the meekness nor prudence of his father. He continued here only a few years after his father's death, which occurred in 1680, but removed to Killingworth, Conn., where he died in 1708. His reputation for learning was so high, that he was chosen the first President of the College of Connecticut, (now Yale College) on its institution in 1701. Mr. Pierson was succeeded in the pastoral office at Newark by Mr. John Prudden, who finally relinquished it, after serving twelve or thirteen years, in favor of Mr. Jabez Wakeman, a young man of distinguished attainments. Mr. W. died in 1704, and was succceded by Mr. Nathaniel Bowers.

The year 1676 was distinguished by the establishment of the first School; and the selectmen "agreed with Mr. John Catlin to instruct their children and servants in as much English reading, writing, and arithmetic as he could teach." Mr. Catlin was also chosen Attorney for the Town, and appears to have been the first lawyer settled here. About the same time, measures were taken to invite mechanics to the place. The first shoemaker appears to have been Samuel Whitehead, of Elizabethtown, who was formally admitted a member of the community, on condition of his supplying it with shoes. The first Tannery was established in 1698, at the "swamp or watering place."

The Town appears to have been early celebrated for its Cider. Governor Carteret writes to the Proprietors in England, in 1682,—"At Newark is made great quantities of cider, exceeding any we can have from New England, Rhode Island, or Long Island," which is the first mention we find of this famous article. The Governor also speaks of the place at this time, as a compact town of about one hundred families, and that it is the only place in the Province provided with a settled preacher, following no other employment. The town appears also to have early obtained the character abroad of being an unhealthy place, subject to fever and agues, and intermittents, which is supposed to have retarded its growth.

During the ministry of Mr. Bowers, a new and larger church was agreed upon. The walls were put up in 1708, a few steps North of the first building, on the same lot. This was a heavy undertaking, much beyond the means of the people. Although the place had been settled forty years, it is said that when the walls were knee high, the whole population, men, women, and children, "could have sat upon them." The interior was not entirely finished within thirty years. It is said to have been the most elegant edifice at that time in the colony.

On the 23d October, 1676, a warrant was granted by the Governor, for 200 acres of land and meadow, for parsonage ground, and also, for so much as was necessary for landing places, school house, town house, market place, &c.; and in 1696, a patent from the proprietaries to the town, covered all the lots, in various parts of the township, called "Parsonage Lands;" which have been since divided, with some difficulty and contention, among five churches, viz: three of the Presbyterian, and the Episcopal, at Newark, and the First Presbyterian church, at Orange.

The London Church Missionary Society, about the year 1732, sent out a number of Missionaries, some of whom settled at Elizabethtown, and other places in the neighborhood of Newark, where they occasionally preached. This gave rise to serious contentions among the colonists on the subject of church government. In this town a few of the leading individuals declared themselves dissatisfied with the Presbyterian form, and in favor of the Episcopal mode, as practised in South Britain. During this controversy, which occurred under the ministry of Mr. Joseph Webb, the immediate successor of Mr. Bowers, the present Episcopal church was instituted. The church appears to have originated in 1734, with Col. Josiah Ogden and others, who took occasion to leave the Presbyterians in consequence of the rigor with which his conduct, in saving his grain in a wet harvest on the Sabbath, was condemned. The present church edifice was built in 1808, on the site of the original building.

Mr. Webb was dismissed in 1736. The Presbyterian church then called the Rev. Aaron Burr, the father of the late Vice President of the United States, who was subsequently born in the town. Mr. Burr was distinguished as an eminent scholar and divine, and enjoyed reputation abroad as well as at home. He established a Latin School soon after his settlement here, and the town in his time, we are told, "flourished exceedingly in trade, manufactures, and agriculture; growing in wealth, population, and respectability, far beyond any thing which it had before attained."

In 1721, the first freestone was quarried for market; and this article, celebrated for its excellent quality, has long been a subject of export. In 1765 the first public Library was established.

During the years 1745, 6 and 7, a great excitement existed in this vicinity, arising out of contentions between the settlers and the English proprietors concerning the title to the lands. The settlers held under their Indian title, and refused to recognize any other. In 1745 and 6, there were two great riots at Newark, in each of which the jail was broken open by large mobs, and the prisoners held by suits in favor of the English proprietors, set at liberty. The same parties liberated other prisoners for the same cause, at Elizabethtown and Somerville.

At the commencement of the revolutionary war, the town was much divided upon the questions agitating the country; and on the Declaration of Independence, by the State, several families, among whom was Mr. Brown, pastor of the Episcopal church, who had ministered from its foundation, joined the royalists in New York. From its vicinage to that strong hold of the enemy, the town suffered greatly, by his visitations, made by regular troops and marauders. On the 22d of November, 1776, Gen. Washington entered Newark on his retreat through New Jersey, having crossed the Passaic by the Acquackanonk bridge, with a force of 3500, comprising Beal's, Heard's, and part of Irvine's brigades. Here the troops remained encamped until the morning of the 28th, when Lord Cornwallis entered the town from New York, and the American forces retreated towards New Brunswick and the Delaware. Each army was thus for a season quartered upon the inhabitants of the town, and the British commander in pursuing the Americans left a strong guard behind, which remained here until after his discomfiture at Trenton. Foraging parties, and bands of plunderers in the garb of the enemy, kept the neighborhood in continual alarm through several years. On the night of the 25th of January, 1780, a regiment of 500 men, commanded by Colonel Lumm, came from New York, following the river on the ice, and burned the academy, then standing on the upper green. This was a stone building, two stories high, with apartments for the teacher. On the same night another British party, unknown to the first, fired the Presbyterian church, at Elizabethtown, the light from which affrighted the incendiaries at Newark, and caused their hasty retreat. They carried away with them Joseph Hedden, Esq., an active whig, who had zealously opposed their previous depredations; dragging him from a sick bed, and compelling him to follow, with no other than his night clothing. The party returned by the route by which they came; and a soldier, more humane than his fellows, gave Mr. H. a blanket, a short time before they reached Paules Hook. At this place Mr. H. was confined in a sugar house, where he perished in a few days, in consequence of the sufferings from that dreadful night.

About this period, and during the war, the average population of the town was less than 1000. In the year 1777, there were only 141 dwelling houses; of which 38 were in that part of the town now comprised within the limits of the North Ward; 50 in the South Ward; 28 in the East, and 25 in the West Ward.

In the year 1746, the College of New Jersey (now located at Princeton,) was instituted at Elizabethtown, under the Presidency of Jonathan Dickinson, who is reported to have been an eminent scholar. Mr. D. died the next year, and the Trustees then confided the students to the care of Mr. Burr, at Newark, who thus became the second President of the College. Here the institution continued to flourish for eight years, at the expiration of which period the Trustees determined to locate it permanently at Princeton. After much controversy between the Trustees and the congregation, Mr. Burr's pastoral relation was dissolved in the winter of 1755, and in the October following he removed to Princeton with the College, where he died in September, 1767. The congregation continued without a pastor until 1759, when they united in a call to the Rev Alexander McWhorter. Mr. McWhorter preached his first sermon here on the 28th June of that year, and continued to preside over the church, with an intermission of one or two years, until his death in 1807—a period of nearly half a century. It would hardly be just to the memory of this estimable and eminent man, not to add that his labors as a minister and a citizen, contributed largely to the character and increase of the town. He stood foremost among the men who adorned the American church during the latter part of the last century, which is no mean praise. A marble slab in the wall at the right of the pulpit in the church which was built chiefly through his instrumentality, worthily commemorates his worth, and the gratitude of the people for whom and with whom he labored.

The present public bridge over the Passaic was originally built about the year 1792. Previous to the Revolution, and up to this period, the business on the river was chiefly transacted at Lowe's & Camp's dock, now known as the stone dock, some hundred yards north of the bridge. The public road to New York communicated with Market street, and led across the upland and meadow by a ferry near the bay. On the construction of the present causeway, the "old ferry road" was abandoned.

The "Newark Academy" was established by an Association in 1792: it was subsequently distinguished for many years as one of the largest and most prominent academic institutions in the country.

Soon after the close of the war, arrangements were made by the Presbyterians for the erection of another and better house of worship. The corner stone of the First Presbyterian Church was laid by Dr. McWhorter in 1787: on the 1st of January, 1791, it was opened for public worship. After the completion of this building, the old church was converted into a Court House, for which purpose it was used until the erection, in 1807, of the building destroyed by fire during the past summer. In 1801 the Rev. Edward D. Griffin, now President of Williams College, was associated with Dr. McWhorter, as a colleague. The entire charge of the congregation devolved upon Dr. G. at the death of this venerable divine, in 1807. He resigned the station in 1809, and was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Richards, who removed to Auburn in 1823. The following year the church called the Rev. Wm. T. Hamilton, who resigned in the fall of 1834, and was succeeded during the past summer by the Rev. A. D. Eddy. The Second Presbyterian Church was erected in 1808, and the Rev. Hooper Cumming installed its first pastor. He was succeeded by Dr. Griffin, who resigned the charge on being appointed President of Williams College. The Rev. Philip C. Hay then became pastor of the church. After his resignation the Rev. Mr. Cheever was called to the station. In 1824, the Third Presbyterian Church was organized, under the Rev. J. T. Russell, who was succeeded by its present minister, the Rev. Baxter Dickinson. The Fourth Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Dr. Weeks is the present pastor, was instituted in the year 1831. A fifth Presbyterian Church, known as the Free Church, was organized during the last year. The Rev. Peter Kanouse is its present pastor. All of these churches now have convenient, and some of them even elegant houses of worship.

The Episcopal church was placed under the care of the Rev. Uzal Ogden soon after the war. After him came the Rev. Joseph Willard, Rev. Lewis P. Bayard, Rev. H. P. Powers, and the Rev. Matthew L. Henderson, the present incumbent. In 1808 the church edifice was rebuilt.

In 1801 the First Baptist church was constituted under the Rev. Charles Lahatt: a meeting house was erected in 1804, and rebuilt in 1810. The following are the succeeding pastors of this church, viz: Rev. Peter Thurston, installed in 1808; Rev. Daniel Sharp, in 1809; Rev. Job Lamb, in 1812; Rev. Ed. Jones, in 1814; Rev. Daniel Putnam, in 1822; Rev. Ebenezer Loomis, in 1826; Rev. J. S. C. F. Frey, in 1828; Rev. P. L. Platt, in 1830, and the present incumbent, Rev. Daniel Dodge, who succeeded in 1832. A second Baptist church was organized in 1833.

The first Methodist Episcopal society was formed in 1806, by the Rev. David Bartine. There are now two large congregations, each having neat and convenient houses of worship. The first Chapel, in Halsey street, was erected in 1810, at which time there were but thirty members, who enjoyed only such ministerial services as could be rendered by two preachers, whose sphere of duty embraced large portions of Essex, Bergen, and Morris Counties, including Staten Island, then known as "the Essex and Staten Island Circuit." In 1818, the Society acquired new vigor from the labors of the Rev. Joseph Lybrand, and from that time it has steadily progressed, and is now grown into two large congregations. It has since been under the pastoral care of the Rev. Messrs. Cremer, Martindale, Thatcher, Rushing, Kennedy, Porter, Gelder, Higgins, Thompson, Matthias, and Atwood

A Dutch Reformed Church was established in the year 1833, and chose the Rev. Ransford Wells pastor. The society have since built a large and elegant brick church in Market street.

A Catholic Church was commenced in 1824, and completed the year following. The Primitive Methodists also have a Church, and there are two African Churches. The Universalists formed a society a few years since, and now have a neat house of worship in Clinton street.

In 1804 the Newark Banking & Insurance Company was chartered, with a capital of $400,000, and this was for a number of years the only Bank in this part of New Jersey.

We have thus summarily gone over our early history, which was the chief object of this imperfect sketch. At a future time, the outline may be filled up, and extended: it remains for us now only to refer to the present advanced condition and prospects of the place.

Perhaps no town in the Union has more steadily advanced, or experienced a more healthy growth, since the introduction of the business of manufacturing. In a description of Newark written in 1806, it is represented as one of the most pleasant and flourishing villages in the United States, noted for its cider, its quarries, the manufacture of carriages, coach lace, and shoes. One third of the inhabitants, it is said, were constantly employed in the manufacture of shoes alone. This is the first mention which we find of manufacturing as the chief business of the Town, and from that period to the present, there has been a steady increase —both in the branches of manufactures, and the amount produced. The value and blessings of domestic industry are happily illustrated in this progress; and it is a fact worthy of record, that while our citizens individually have been the architects of their own fortunes, so our town collectively is not indebted to any adventitious causes for its advancement, but has grown and flourished only by industry, frugality, and enterprize: and it now stands among the foremost inland towns in the United States.

The population in 1810, including the township, which then embraced the present township of Clinton, was not far from 6000. In 1826 the number had increased to 8017; and in 1830 to 10,995.

In 1833 the population was estimated at 15,000, and the number of dwellings at 1712. While compiling the present Directory, we have made the following estimate of the population in 1835, which we suppose to be substantially correct. It should be observed that the township of Clinton has been set off since 1833.

ESTIMATED POPULATION IN 1835.

Free White Americans,	10,542
Irish population, about	6,000
English and Scotch, do	1,000
Germans,	300
Free people of color,	359
Total in 1835,	18,201

It would appear by these estimates that the period of the town's greatest prosperity and increase, is the interval since 1830. During this time the population has nearly doubled, allowance being made for the number set off with the new township; and the increase of its capital and business is probably in a much greater ratio.

There are three Banks and three Insurance Companies, viz: "The Newark Banking & Insurance Co.," incorporated in 1804, with a capital of $400.000; "State Bank," in 1812, with a capital of $280,000; and "The Mechanics' Bank," in 1831, with a capital of $250,000. The Insurance Companies are the Newark Mutual, the Mechanics', and the New Jersey Insurance Company.

The Morris Canal was completed in 1832, thus furnishing the town a direct and easy communication with the Delaware at Easton, and the Lehigh Coal Mines at Mauch Chunk. The New Jersey Rail Road & Transportation Company opened their road to Jersey City on the 15th of September of last year. Some idea may be formed of the amount of business on this road, and of the intercourse between the town and the great Commercial Metropolis, by the following estimate, copied from a late number of the Newark Daily Advertiser, as furnished by the books of the Company. It should also be observed that beside this mode of communication, there is a Steam Boat, and a regular line of Stages, which are fully patronized:—

Statement of the number of passengers carried on the New Jersey Railroad between Newark and New York, from September 15, 1834, to August 1, 1835.

From Sept. 15, 1834, to March 1, 1835, 5½ months, there was carried an average number of 7,584 passengers per month, or			41,712
From March 1, 1835, to April 1, 1835,			8,316
From April 1,	"	to May 1, "	10,036
From May 1,	"	to June 1, "	12,540
From June 1,	"	to July 1, "	13,222
From July 1,	"	to August 1, "	16,223
Total,			102,049
If the number for August be the same as July,			16,223
And half that number to the 15th September,			8,111
The total number carried in a year will be			126,483

This road will probably be completed to New Brunswick during the present season.

The business of the river has also greatly increased. During the sessson of Congress of 1833–4, the town was made a Port of Entry, and Archer Gifford, Esq. appointed Collector. Since that event our commerce appears to have received a new impulse. The Whaling Company, incorporated the year previous, fitted out a vessel during the past summer, which is now at sea; and several vessels of large tonnage have been employed in the southern trade. There has also been a corresponding increase in the trade with the city of New York, and the northern and eastern ports; in which trade nearly 100 vessels are constantly employed, several of them being exclusively engaged in the coal trade, as connected with the Morris Canal. It is proper also to remark that the fuel for the consumption of the town is chiefly supplied by this canal.

During the past summer it was ascertained, after careful investigation, by a competent committee, that the annual exports of the town to the southern ports of the United States, South America, and the West India Islands, exceed the immense amount of EIGHT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

These exports consist chiefly of the manufactured goods produced in our numerous factories, such as saddlery and harness, carriages, shoes, hats, watch springs and lamps, plated, brass, and iron castings, cutlery, coach lace, patent leather, malleable iron, window blinds and sashes, cabinet ware, sitting chairs, jewelry, planes, ready made clothing, trunks, &c. &c. &c.

Besides the immense amount of goods of these descriptions, manufactured for foreign markets, large quantities of various other kinds are produced for consumption at home.

The increase in the business of the town, and also in its population, has been much greater during the current year than within any corresponding period. New streets have been opened in every direction: large numbers of buildings of almost every description have gone up, including a number of the largest manufacturing establishments in the place; real estate has advanced beyond all former precedent; and every interest of the town is springing forward with unexampled energy and vigor.
